Target Audience:

This course is suited for law enforcement personnel and students who are new to forensics as well as those who are already conducting examinations or being trained to do so. Because of the scope of material covered, this course is beneficial for all but the most seasoned examiners. Law enforcement personnel will be able to use this training immediately to continue their development as examiners. Students would be able to apply for jobs that require such training. It is an excellent introduction into the science for those of other disciplines, particularly crime scene personnel Other professionals involved in both the academic and judicial systems would also benefit from the broad overview of the science.

Attendees Should Bring:

A fingerprint magnifier and notebook are required for this class. Dress is business casual.

Course 1 of 12 in our Friction Ridge—Latent Curricula.

This course is approved for IAI certification/re-certification
